REFUSED TO PAY HIS FARE.

The End Man Didn't Make the Journey
Till After a Chicagoan's Story.

"I had an experience once in the far West," said a Chicago merchant. "I was at that time traveling for the house in which I am now a partner, and my business took me to the Rocky mountains. There were two or three stores up in the mountains at the terminus of a branch road they were building to some mines and I had to take them in. There was a tremendous grade—I presume as much as 100 feet to the mile for twenty-five miles and the two trains a day that passed over the road with passengers were not the fastest on the continent. However, they were good enough, and beat a mule train all to pieces. There were not more than a dozen passengers in the single coach, a very primitive affair, when we started, and by the time we had gone a mile or two, they were two of us and one of them had come on at the last station. He was equal to all the other down though, for he was just drunk enough to be nearly as good as a 'terro' himself. He had two big guns in his belt and a knife to keep them company, and when the conductor asked him for his fare he simply gave him a cursing. When the conductor insisted on his paying, he told him if he didn't get out he would fill him full of lead and tap him with his knife, and the conductor retired, but in no good humor. As he sat down in the corner where I was by a stove, I asked him who the fellow was, and he told me he was the worst man in the mountains, and had killed a man for every finger he had on his hands. He had at one time shot a hole through the conductor's hat, but the difficulty had been patched up temporarily.

"I could see the conductor was feeling sore, and when I stopped asking questions he shut up like a clam, and devoted himself to profound thought, every now and then looking over his shoulders toward his unmanageable passenger. Some time later when we might have been about five miles from our destination, the conductor asked me if I would like to take my bag and step into the engine that served as a baggage car. I did so, and took my seat on one of the simple cases, the conductor shutting the door of the car behind me, and leaving me there. A minute or two later I felt the train start forward, and as I felt it was going, and in a moment or so the conductor came in. I asked him what the matter was, and he pointed to the door. I got up and opened it, and instead of finding the passenger car where I had left it, it was flying back down the track at break-neck speed. In another minute it had whirled around a curve and was out of sight.

"How did that happen?" I asked the conductor in horror.

"That was some way," he answered.

"Where the passenger went off to?"

"He's there yet," quipped.

"Well, wasn't you going back to do what you can? The whole thing will be smoothed."

"I didn't expect it," he answered.

"Then he stepped to the forward door of the baggage and told the engineer to reverse the engine and go back. Five miles down the track was found the mangled and mangled wreck in a million pieces at the bottom of a gorge a few feet from the track. We couldn't get it to then, so we went on to our destination, where the accident was reported and the engineer notified.

He went down next day, but couldn't find enough of the 'terror' to hold an inquest on, and returned a verdict in accordance with the facts and gave the remains to the conductors for future reference.

"Did the conductor cut the car loose?" inquired the reporter.

"That's what the engineer asked me," replied the other, "but how did I know? The conductor had a sword to say anybody and he wouldn't be compelled to testify under the circumstances."

Where Do Children Learn Lying?

A Chicago child actor teacher says that mothers come to her so often, asking how they shall break their children from telling untruths, that she has almost come to think that lying is a national evil. Humiliating as this conclusion, its truth cannot be gainsaid.

"I am distressed," said a mother to her boy's teacher, "that Freddie could deceive you so. I can't imagine why he is so untruthful. He tells a truth in a minute. I have no one ever heard me tell a lie. Call him in," she pleaded, turning to her little daughter.

"He won't come. He knows Miss—" is here," said the child.

"Say it's grandma wants him," suggested her mother, "that will fetch him. And yet she wondered at her boy's untruthfulness."

"Have you a dog?" asked a tax collector at another home.

"Not a dog of any description," was the prompt reply.

"What about Speck, mamma?" asked the little son, answering in the doorway with a tiny dog in his arms.

"Get me two dollars," laughed the father, holding the child. "Capital joke on his mother's head."

Another story, involving the loss of a boy's respect for his mother's veracity, and by reflex influence lowering his own standard of truth.

"Your half an hour late Willie," said another mother, "but here's an excuse; give it to the teacher, and she won't say a word." The child, who couldn't read writing, confidently delivered the note; it was an urgent request to have him punished a month because for some time he had gone while being badly and dressed.

If mean, little lies and petty deceptions on the mother's part are the child's early school lessons, who wonder that he outgrows his teacher, and even shocks her by his propensity in the art.

PLEASURES AND SPORTS.

Charles Francis Adams, famous and dignified publicist, bowling along on a bicycle is one of the sights of Boston.

Although Lilliputian Spafford is called an old man he rides a thoroughbred every day in the streets of Washington, and delights in the exercise.

Sir Edward Braden, a new authority on big game in India, says that the elephant is revengeful, treacherous, and with a few exceptions, an animal coward. Recently Prince de Sagan was allowed to turn a party of the Bois de Boulogne into a bicycle track for a private club, when he had over three hundred trees cut down without permission.

Two Englishmen recently crossed the channel for Dover to Calais in a tandem "creek" boat, dishing thirty miles in seven hours and fifteen minutes. The water was as smooth as a mill pond. The boat is very light and has paddle wheels on either side, which are worked by pedals.

In the annual bicycle race from Bordeaux to Paris, 300 miles, this year, Herr Gerner, an Austrian, came in first of the amateurs in twenty-four hours and 294 minutes. The first professional, C. Meyer, a Dane, came in in 25½ hours. There were sixty entries, of whom twenty were foreigners.

FOREIGN CRAPS.

Water-pipes in Russia rarely freeze, because they are laid below the frost line. A license is required in England to sell ginger beer after ten o'clock at night.

The very poor of Berlin are better housed than those of any other large city in the world. The German capital is really without slums.

The natives of Sumatra have a visiting card consisting of a piece of wood about a foot long, decorated with a bunch of straw and a knife.

The natives of Northern Alaska and Siberia have no knowledge of money, and tourists taking the country have to exchange the same into barter goods.

The metrical system was made obligatory in Turkey from March 1, all use of the old weights and measures having been forbidden after that date.

Russian journals are still in mourning for the liquid carbonic acid evolving into carbonic acid gas.

The skeleton of an average whale is said to weigh no less than 50,000 pounds. This is not a fish story. The whale is not a fish.

It is said that at present there are more than one hundred callings, occupations and professions open to women, and the list is constantly increasing.

A piece of glass lodged in the eye of Oliver Snyder, of Harrington, Ind., three years ago. There it remained until the other day, when a doctor removed it.

It is reported that at some of the markets in Minnesota, wheat five and six years old has been brought in by farmers, the owners saying they would hold all intermediate crops.

There is a man in Hammond, Ill., who believes in advertising. He has this notice in one of the street cars: "J. N. Blank, justice of the peace. Marriage ceremonies performed on short notice."

A SIDE DISH OF SCIENCE.

Ceres, the first of the asteroids to be discovered, was found on the first day of the present century. Its mean distance from the sun is about 27,700,000 miles. Dr. Hirschfeld, the archaeologist, who conducted the German excavations at Olympia, died recently at Welsheim at the age of forty-eight. He was professor of archaeology at the University of Konigsberg.

An eminent astronomer estimates that if the so-called canals in the planet Mars are artificial, they must have demanded the labors of two hundred million men through one thousand years. To change a pound of ice at thirty-two degrees Fahrenheit into a pound of water at thirty-two degrees Fahrenheit requires 142 heat units, or 142 times as much heat as is required to raise the temperature of a pound of water one degree Fahrenheit.

THE FAR EAST.

Paper stockings in varied hues are worn in China.

Japan has a written history extending over 2,500 years.

The most important artificial water course in the Imperial canal of China is 2,300 miles in length. Its construction occupied 600 years.

The current opinion was in use by the sultan of the Ottoman empire as early as the fourteenth century. Lilliput says that a despatch was carried from Baghdad to Aleppo, thirty days' journey on horses, in forty-eight hours.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Gladstone is at work upon a "Life of Bishop Butler."

Lake Ontario markets, Queen Victoria is fond of talking about the weather.

Bandmaster John Philip Sousa is said to have an income of more than $20,000 a year in royalties from his musical compositions.

Sarcasm, the musician, shares the fondness of Henry Irving and other artistic celebrities for canine pets. His fancy is for poodles.

Mrs. Straker is a new actress from Kansas who is expected to make a hit, while Mrs. Foster is the keeper of a restaurant in the same state.

Few authors have died possessed of such large fortunes as that which George Reilly, the publisher, who died recently, amassed. At her death it was only $200,000.

A man who sat near Miss Helen Gould when she attended church at Kansas City told a journal reporter that she dropped a $5 bill in the plate when it was passed to her.

Reverend Cleveland is almost as fond of sleep as he is of fishing. In Washington he usually sleeps only eight hours a day, but at Gray Gables he often sleeps ten and sometimes twelve hours.

Two sets of cables, each valued at $5,000, are being laid by the Empress of Russia and the Duchess of Cagburg. In summer these furs are examined every day in case an intrusive moth should find its way into such costly refuges.

WRONGLY NAMED.

Timonoe is not a bird.

Butlin's Bay is not a bay.

Shoemouse is no mouse.

Shedding wax contains no wax.

Blind mounds have eyes, and can see.

Irish stew is a dish unknown in Ireland.

Turkish baths are unknown to the Turks.

Dutch clocks are of German manufacture.

Rice paper is not made of rice or the rice plant.

STUB ENDS OF THOUGHT.

A woman thinks of a man; a man thinks of a woman.

Music paints rainbow tints on the heart.

Liberty and justice are represented as women, because men love liberty and justice.

When a young man burns the candle at both ends, somebody else has to pay for the candle.

Rest is an expensive luxury to most people.

A kiss to a woman is a sentiment; it is merely an incident to a man.

Ambition is the mother of mankind's peace.

Charity should not be an impulse, but a principle.

A woman loses her chief attraction when she begins to let her head guide her heart.

DON'TS FOR FISHERMEN.

Don't use a cool line for brook trout, or a trout line for cod.

Don't desecrate the gentle art by fishing on a spawning bed.

Don't give an eel slack line so that he can tie it full of knots.

Don't fish where the fish don't bite; move on to another spot.

Don't peep over the bank to see where fish are in the brook.

Don't—don't—don't ever call a brook trout a "speckled beauty."

Don't fail to commune with nature; that's half the fun of fishing.

Don't think that the best fishing tackle is made by saloon-keepers.

Don't forget to change the water frequently in the minnow-bucket.

Don't boast that you can wind your brand-new rod round a barrel.

Don't put bait in your pocket where it is liable to get into your pipe.

Don't hang dead fish over the side of the boat—water will spoil them.

Don't let your boatman stop rowing if you strike a fish when trolling.

Don't let a fish leap into the air, and then fall back on a taunted line.

Don't use a two-pound sinker for brook fishing—half a pound will do.

Don't forget that patience is a virtue and the foundation of successful fishing.

Don't curse the tree when it gathers in your hands and flies; it was not all its fault.

Don't fail to put up the bars you let down to get into a farmer's meadow.

Don't trespass on your neighbor's stream if he wants you to fish there he will ask you.

Don't sit on the tail rail of a yacht in a ten-knot breeze with a bluish line fast to your waist.

Don't laugh when the other man loses a fish; men have been murdered for less provocations.

Don't try to empty rubber boots by standing on your head and waving your legs in the air.

Don't leave your fish exposed in the boat while you go ashore; the neighborhood cats will eat them.

Don't wear cotton clothing if there's a risk of getting wet; wool, even when soaked, will keep you warm.

Don't throw salad cans and broken bottles into the brook; they may do evil to your own tackle some future day.

Don't try to wade a brook more than five feet deep; if it is absolutely necessary to wade, take off your clothes and swim.

Don't lose your friend when he is trying to land a fish; he may know almost as much as you do about the gentleman.

Don't open your eyes in the middle of a swift stream and on slippery bottom; you are likely to lose your fish if you do.

Don't go to sleep with a trolling rod hanging over the side or stern of the boat; it is apt to get broken or hauled overboard.

Don't try to lift a two-pound trout out of the brook with a four-ounce rod; you're likely to lose fish, rod, and waders if you do.

Don't try to explain to your friends how you lost the biggest fish of the day, when it is just as easy to show how many you did catch.

Don't use a reel with more than triple gear; when you find it necessary to have greater speed in "reeling up" get a single or double.

Don't talk about "killing fish," "giving him the butt," "covering his rise," and other sporting slang, when you can't tell a trout from a ten-rod.

Don't throw away your unused bait on shore, throw it into the water, where it may make things attractive for the fish and more sport for you on the morrow.

SIMILARITY OF PROVERBS.

The following are familiar specimens of Chinese proverbs. The English version is given also in each instance:

"To cut off a hen's head with a battle-axe." (Much ado about nothing.)

"It thunders loudly, but little rain falls." (Much cry and little work.)

"A thousand chiefs, a thousand plans." (Too many cooks will spoil the broth.)

"There's a time to fish and a time to dry nets." (There's a time for all things.)

"One strand of silk doesn't make a thread." (One swallow doesn't make a summer.)

"If you don't enter the tiger's den, you cannot obtain his young." (Nothing venture, nothing win.)

"The court is like a ship at sea—everything depends on the wind." (Put not your trust in princes.)

"Time flies like an arrow; days and months like a weaver's shuttle." (Time and tide wait for no man.)

"For him who goes everything in its power time, one day is worth three." (A stitch in time saves nine.)

"Virtue is the surest road to longevity, but vice meets with an early doom." (Virtue is its own reward.)

water that has filtered through the trunk in the direction of the fibers. He has consequently constructed an apparatus designed to utilize the property in obtaining portable water for the use of ship's crews. This apparatus consists of a pump, which sucks up the sea water into a reservoir and then forces it into a filter formed by the tree of the trunk. As soon as the pressure reaches 1.5 to 2.5 atmospheres the water is seen at the end of from one to three minutes, according to the kind of wood used—to make its exit from the outer extremity of the trunk, at first in drops and then in fine streams, the water thus filtered being potable, fresh, in fact from every particle of the usual saline taste which is such a drawback to water obtained in the ordinary manner.

THE PAIN LEFT QUICKLY.

Rheumatism of Seven Years' Standing Cured in a Few Days.

I have been a victim of rheumatism for seven years, being confined to bed for months at a time, unable to turn myself. I have been treated by many physicians in this part of the country, none of whom benefited me. I had no faith in rheumatic cures advertised, but my wife induced me to get a bottle of Smith's American Rheumatic Cure from Mr. Taylor, druggist, Owen Sound. At the time I was suffering agonizing pain, but inside of twelve hours after I took the first dose, the pain left me. I continued until I took three bottles, and I consider I am completely cured. ## A Commissioner in B. R.

GENTLEMEN,—Having used Hayward's Pectoral Balm in our family for years I have no hesitation in saying that it beats everything else we tried for coughs and colds in children as well as grown up people. It relieves that tight binding sensation in the chest. We would not be without it for anything, as we have a large family.

KIDNEY TROUBLE.

The Bane of Millions of Lives Can be Cured.

The diseases that we so dread do not come upon us at one step. They are a matter of growth. The sad news is only too common of friends who have died of Bright's disease, diabetes and kindred complaints. It is known that in the system of thousands exist the seeds that in a short time will develop into these maladies. Disease of the kidneys in its mild form never stands still. The warning is worth heeding that efforts should be promptly taken to eradicate the slightest symptoms of kidney disease, and South American Kidney Cure is found a sure and safe remedy for every form of kidney trouble. Whether chronic, incipient or in some of the distressing phases so well known, it proves an effective, and what is pleasing to know, a ready and quick cure.

"Keep your temper, laddie. Never quarrel with an angry partner, specially a woman. Mind your soft answers are best. It's commanded—and forbye, it makes them far madder than anything else you could say."

WORK OF A SINGLE DAY.

Some Startling Facts Concerning the Action of the Heart.

Do people recognize the immense work transacted by the heart in a single day? It equals that of lifting one hundred and fifty pounds to a height of thirty-three hundred feet. And yet, knowingly, or through ignorance, nine out of ten people abuse this hardest worked organ of the body. There is nothing remarkable in the fact that heart failure and apoplexy are among the most prevalent diseases of the day. Happily a remedy is found in Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, which gives relief instantly. This medicine should be kept in every house, so that on the slightest indication of heart trouble it may be taken. It has saved by its prompt and efficient work, the lives of thousands of Canadians.

Doing without the things you want may be a very painful experience, but it is not half as bad as buying them on credit, and then being dined for payment.

BIG PROFITS SMALL INVESTMENTS.

Returning property will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful speculation in grain, provisions and stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation...

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system. It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who, by systematic trading through Chicago Brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 or more by those who invest a few hundred.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plan are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through Brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOFS, also our Manual on successful speculation and our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. All FREE. Our Manual explains margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our standing and success.
